

FORTY-ONE LICENSES FOR SALOONS GRANTED TODAY AT THE COUNCIL SESSION

EXTRA ONE GIVEN CARL HEISE AT INTERURBAN HOTEL ON PETITION OF EIGHTY-NINE SIGNERS.

ALL NOW WITHIN ZONE

Three Brewery Permits and Eight Druggists Also Granted Permits at Today's Session. Forty-one saloon licenses, three brewery permits and eight druggists' permits were issued by the city council in session for that purpose at the city hall this afternoon.

The names of forty applicants whose places of business are within the prescribed territory laid down some weeks ago, were read by City Clerk Hammarlund, who stated that the bonds for the same had been filed and their money paid over to the city treasurer. Licenses were immediately allowed to these applicants by a unanimous vote.

The first license granted, was to Carl Heise, who conducts the Interurban hotel at the corner of Dodge and South Franklin street, but whose entrance is on South Franklin. Mr. Heise's application for license was accompanied by petition signed by eighty-nine property-owners.

In view of the fact that some months there was a serious talk by the church of the Methodist church that the council be petitioned not to grant a license to the Interurban hotel owing to its nearness to the church, it is interesting to note that among the names signed to the list of petitioners for the license were three officials of the church, and the question is asked, what do the other six hundred members of the church think about it.

Mr. Heise will move his bar to the Franklin street side of the building according to his statement, which was received and read.

The resolution allowing a license to Mr. Heise was introduced by Mayor Pfaender, who offered an explanation for the action which seemed a contradiction of the previous intention of the council to allow but forty licenses within the zone. The resolution stated that the council had no idea of being arbitrary and to act in a spirit of fairness and justice. There had been a prevalent demand for a reduction in the number of saloon licenses and the council had consequently decided to cut. As Mr. Heise has volunteered to bring his saloon within the zone and as he has the petition of a number of prominent taxpayers it was considered advisable to issue him a license.

The other eighty-nine licenses were not acted upon and at least seven of the same are virtually rejected as they will not receive consideration. The application of Joseph Pfaender, 15 South Franklin street, involves a purely legal question and was referred to the city attorney. The others who will not receive licenses owing to the fact that they are outside of the established zone and for other legal disqualifications are: Mrs. Kelly, James Kemmett, Fred Rau, Mrs. James Dalton, Philip Sheridan, Peter J. Goodman, and N. R. Park.

A number of proprietors of saloons no outside of the zone failed to make applications as they foresaw what would be their fate. The above named seven, however, made their applications and are now waiting on what at the outset was a hopeless case. Several locations now within the prescribed territory will not be run by the present proprietors, among which are the Grand hotel saloon, the license being transferred from J. E. Sweeney to Messrs. Smith and Wild, and the N. R. Park saloon on West Milwaukee street, the license for which was granted to Tim McKeigue.

TRIAL OF BRIBERY CASES WILL BEGIN

Nine Members of Detroit Board of Aldermen Under Indictment—Case Pending Over Year.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Detroit, Mich., June 30.—Trials in the so-called Aldermanic boudoir cases, in which nine members of the Detroit board of aldermen are under indictment, are scheduled to begin this week. The cases have been pending since last July, when the accused aldermen were indicted and arrested on charges of accepting bribes and conspiracy to accept a bribe for their votes and influence in the passing of a measure affecting city property transferred to the Wabash railroad.

Rumors of graft among the aldermen had been in circulation for a long time before the exposure came. As a result of these rumors Mayor William B. Thompson sought the services of detectives and Andrew K. Green, a prominent manufacturer, agreed to investigate the matter. After the investigation was begun, the Wabash railroad applied for the closing of a street on the grounds that it wanted to erect a warehouse and otherwise increase its shipping facilities. The aldermen held a meeting in council for a time. Then suddenly the council granted the application by vote of several members who had previously opposed the measure.

Being detective, who represented himself to be land agent for the railroad, had been at the charges, into negotiations with the secretary of the common council. Eventually it was decided, it is alleged, that several who had been opposing the street measure would withdraw their opposition for $100 each. Some of the aldermen, however, are said to have held out for more.

The first of the accused aldermen to be placed on trial is Thomas Gilman, president of the council and alleged to be the boss of the boudoirs. Gilman is known as a power in Detroit politics and at the time the charges were made against him he was mentioned as a possible candidate for mayor.

SEVERAL THOUSAND MAROONED BY FIRE

Unable to Leave Rockaway Beach When Trestle Connecting Resort With Long Island Burns.

New York, June 30.—Nearly 50,000 persons were marooned on Rockaway beach today when a fire destroyed part of the trestle connecting that popular resort with Long Island. The flames started from a short circuit on the rail of the Long Island railroad while a train crowded with 600 persons was crossing the trestle over Jamaica Bay. The rear car on the train caught fire and there was a wild scramble among the passengers to get foothold on the trestle. Hundreds of men, women and children picked their way over the ties to safety.

About 300 feet of the trestle burned before the fire was extinguished. The only other route home was by way of a single trolley line which was unable to accommodate the thousands of persons most of whom spent the night asleep on the beach or in pavilions.

MULHALL'S "SYSTEM" CAUSES EXCITEMENT

SEARCHING INVESTIGATION WILL BE STARTED IMMEDIATELY ON CHARGES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

By Congressmen and Senators Who Have Remained in Washington Over Fourth.

Washington, June 30.—A searching investigation of the so-called "Mulhall system" at the capitol not only by the senate committee, but also by a select committee of the house, promises to be the first result of the sensational charges by Martin M. Mulhall, who claims to have been the general field lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers.

Mulhall's startling allegation that representatives, senators and high officials of the government "had been reached" or "bribe" that the lobby conducted its operations from a room in the capitol, paid money to employees there, took an active hand in making up committees, and went on actively in the political campaigns to elect congressmen who opposed legislation the "lobby" wanted, have thrown congressional circles into an uproar. Mulhall's sensational statements were almost the sole topic of discussion in office in the capitol today.

President Wilson discussed the Mulhall charges briefly today with the Washington correspondent and said he believed the lobby on tariff legislation had "ceased to embarrass anybody but itself." Governor Gurnea called his committee together for a short executive conference early today and at its conclusion announced that a full investigation of the Mulhall charges had been agreed upon.

"We will go to the bottom of the charges," he said, "and while I have no doubt the committee has the authority, if it hasn't, we will have it decided by tomorrow." No meeting of the committee will be held until July 8.

Finishing touches to the schedules of the tariff bill were considered today by the senate committee, which is endeavoring to finish its work by tonight, that the revised measure may go to the entire finance committee and be reported to the senate by Thursday.

Representative Sherley stated today that he proposed to ask the house on Wednesday to authorize an investigation of its house, and would bring up the question as a matter of privilege of the house.

Chairman Henry of the rules committee declared that any resolution for the investigation of the Mulhall charges would be taken up immediately. He said he favored an investigation.

DOES McREYNOLDS DESERVE CRITICISM?

Attorney General McReynolds.

The government expressly stipulates that should any illegal condition arise from the extension of Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio stocks, either under existing law or future legislation or future interpretation, by the court of present statutes the government would have the right "freely to assume the arrangement."

Attorney General McReynolds' statement to the court framed after cabinet discussion and conference with President Wilson comments on the exchange of Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio stocks and points out that at present no federal law forbids one railroad company from owning stock in another non-competitive line, but that by interpretation by the court a different meaning may hereafter be given to present statutes of new legislation covering that point may be enacted. On the other hand the present is apparently no legal objection now to the proposals of the railroads under what administration officials regard as an administration of the law, and the administration officials regard as an improvement of the plan in view of the fact that it breaks up two actual threatened monopolies and at the same time affords the purpose of the government's present suit against the Harriman merger. The president and the attorney general believe moreover that the federal authorities are left free under the plan to act as they deem right against any harmful or illegal consequences not now foreseen.

SUBMITTED PLAN TO ANNUAL BIG MERGER

UNION PACIFIC AND SOUTHERN PACIFIC CASE IS HEARD.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

St. Paul, Minn., June 30.—Plans for the dissolution of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific merger as ordered by the U. S. supreme court as was scheduled were presented to federal judges W. H. Sanborn, William C. Hook and Walter J. Smith of the eighth circuit. The plan has been approved by President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds, with a qualification by the government that the court grant a reasonable time within which the attorney general may make objections if further study develops that the plan will not meet the exactions of the Sherman law in all respects.

In brief the scheme to be presented today by H. W. Clarke of counsel for the Union Pacific is understood to provide for the exchange of 38,292,400 of Southern Pacific stock for the Pennsylvania holdings in the Baltimore & Ohio of approximately the same value and the placing of the remaining $38,557,700 of the Southern Pacific's $126,550,000 stock in the hands of a trust company to be sold within a definite time. The plan is said to be a substitute to the attorney general, is representing the government at today's hearing.

The plan presented today allows until January 1, 1914, for the complete dissolution of the combination and is judged illegal by the supreme court. Mr. Loomis for the road objected to the suggestion made by Mr. Reynolds that the court direct that the plan be published in the American public in order that any objection may be presented to the court by interested parties.

All previous plans are superseded by this latest one, which proposes that the Union Pacific should exchange thirty-eight million dollars of its stock for twenty-eight million holdings in the Southern Pacific for the Pennsylvania railroad's entire holding in the Baltimore and Ohio. Virtually, an equal amount and that the remaining eighty-eight million shall be sold to the general public through a trust company.

No present stock holders in the Union Pacific continuing as such might buy any of the Southern Pacific stocks so sold and each purchaser would be obliged to make affidavit that he was not acting in concert or agreement with any one else buying Southern Pacific stock. The plan would give control for the Union Pacific. The plan would begin on November 1, 1913, and if not completed by January 1, 1916, the court would direct the disposition of any Southern Pacific stock remaining untraded. The plan would be approved by the plan to be asked before anyone whether an interested party or not to interpose objections.

The government expressly stipulates that should any illegal condition arise from the extension of Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio stocks, either under existing law or future legislation or future interpretation, by the court of present statutes the government would have the right "freely to assume the arrangement."

Attorney General McReynolds' statement to the court framed after cabinet discussion and conference with President Wilson comments on the exchange of Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio stocks and points out that at present no federal law forbids one railroad company from owning stock in another non-competitive line, but that by interpretation by the court a different meaning may hereafter be given to present statutes of new legislation covering that point may be enacted. RAPID GROWTH OF CORN NOTICED DUE TO THE HOT WEATHER

Noyes B. Raessler Writes of the Marked Changes in the Past Few Days in Crop.

(By Noyes B. Raessler.)
It is pleasing to learn that the extreme heat of the past week has been of benefit in some localities, at least, and the following article by Noyes B. Raessler will deal with the rapid growth of the corn crop throughout the county.

In all my experience in corn growing, I have never witnessed a more rapid growth than that made by the corn in this section during the past two weeks.

These hot days and warm nights following the abundant rains which have come down without much washing nor high winds have made conditions ideal for the corn crop.

To be sure, the weeds thrive as well as the corn, but the weeds are kept busy. Our boys, however, are not sleeping at this time, and I am glad to say that no field of corn has come to my observation that did not show signs of thorough cultivation.

This is very important, especially during the fore part of July and be sure to roll the soil well over the roots at the base of the plants. This serves three purposes:

1. It adds plant food just where it is wanted; keeps the soil moist around the roots and covers weeds which cannot be reached by the cultivator otherwise.

I am in receipt of a letter from Northfield, Minnesota, stating that they have had no rain for the past three weeks and that the contest boys there are wishing that they had a few of the showers we enjoyed lately.

It is up to us to make the most of the opportunities offered us and keep the good work going.

The Rock county corn contest is being watched with interest all over the northwest and even the United States department of agriculture, and there is no question but what the entire community will be benefited thereby before the end of the year.

JOHN BENSON FOUND UNCONSCIOUS SUNDAY

Switch Tender on Northwestern Road Prostrated by the Excessive Heat.

John Benson, switch tender on the Northwestern road, was overcome with heat while on duty at the switch station of the Evansville cutoff on North Franklin street. About five o'clock in the afternoon he was found lying on the floor unconscious, having been overcome with heat. Someone passing noticed him lying on the floor and called assistance, and he was carried out doors, and Dr. James Mills called to attend him. He was conveyed to his boarding place at 216 North Jackson street, where, after receiving medical attention and care for some time, he revived.

The thermometer on the north side of the station house registered 100 in the shade yesterday afternoon at the time that he was overcome with heat. This morning he had improved so that he was able to answer questions, and has a fair prospect of complete recovery. Mr. Benson is nearly 70 years of age, but it is thought he will entirely recover from the effects of being over-heated.

TELEPHONE GIRLS ENJOYED A RARE TREAT SATURDAY

The telephone girls were greatly surprised Saturday when a local business man presented each afternoon with a huge pile of ice-cold lemonade. The offices where the "hello" girls are employed are extremely hot, and the girls were very much pleased to be treated with such a refreshing beverage. The kindness was greatly appreciated by the central operators.

Passed Away Yesterday Morning at Home in This City—Leaves Four Children—Funeral Tuesday.

Mrs. Katharine Sullivan, widow of the late Botolph Sullivan, died very suddenly Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John J. Kelly, 15 Chatham street. Mrs. Sullivan was born seventy-one years ago at Troy, N. Y. At the age of sixteen years she moved (then Miss Katherine Palmer) to Janesville, where two years later she married Botolph Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan died forty-four years ago. A peculiar incident of Mrs. Sullivan's death is the fact that she passed away on the same month, day and hour as Mr. Sullivan died—Sunday, June 23rd, at 4:00 a. m.—just forty-four years later.

Mrs. Sullivan was one of the best known and highly respected residents of Janesville. Of a kindly sympathetic nature, she was always ready at the call of sickness or distress and her neighbors will miss the kindly help which she was always ready to give to others as she would that they should do unto her. Mrs. Sullivan leaves two sons and two daughters: Mrs. J. Kelly of Janesville, Mrs. E. J. Conley of Chicago, John A. Sullivan of Hutchinson, Kansas, a half brother Edward Griffin, and twelve grandchildren. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 9 a. m. from St. Patrick's church and burial will be at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

John Kelley.

Requiem mass for John Kelley of the town of Johnston, was celebrated at St. Mary's church at ten o'clock this morning by the Rev. Fr. W. A. Goebel. The pall bearers were George Pierce, Nicholas Maher, Martin Joyce and James White. Those from out of the city who attended the funeral were Thomas Grady, Mrs. William Donahoe and child, James Madden, and Mrs. Patrick Heunessy of Chicago, Mrs. Bartly Malone, Robert Malone, Miss Georgia Malone, and Mrs. James Higgins of Racine. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. Emma Vandylin.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma B. Vandylin were conducted yesterday afternoon at ten o'clock in the home, 436 North Hickory street, by the Rev. Fr. Williams, pastor of the Cargill Methodist church. Those who acted as pall bearers were Thomas Kinnear, Thomas Kinnear, Frank Premo, and N. E. McNett. The remains were shipped to Darien, Wis., at 11:55 o'clock, and were buried there this afternoon. The funeral was well attended and the floral tributes were profuse.

Myrtle Irene Bucknall.

Miss Myrtle Irene Bucknall of Edgerton passed away at Mercy hospital at five o'clock yesterday morning, the cause of her death being peritonitis. She was twenty-four years old and Edgerton was her birthplace. The remains were removed to her home this morning and the funeral will be held there tomorrow.

Owen Lovelace.

Owen, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lovelace, died at their home, 18 North Division street, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The tiny remains will be placed in the vault at Mt. Olivet cemetery until a later date.

Wayne Woodring.

The tiny remains of Wayne Woodring infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woodring were laid to rest in Oak Hill cemetery yesterday afternoon after services had been conducted at the home, 303 Milton avenue, by the Rev. C. J. Roberts of the United Brethren church.

Mrs. E. H. Dudley.

Last services for Mrs. E. H. Dudley were held at the home, 323 South Main street, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, the Rev. Dr. David Beaton, pastor of the Congregational church, officiating. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

PLAYGROUNDS READY FOR USE WEDNESDAY

Play Supervisor L. R. Finley Hopes to Have Apparatus Ready For Use By That Time.

Playground activities in Janesville, will be opened on Wednesday or Thursday of this week according to Play Supervisor L. R. Finley who now has practically all the apparatus completed and in place. The construction of equipment has been carried on simultaneously on the Jefferson and Webster school grounds, so that both of these will be ready for use at practically the same time. Work at the latter place is a little more advanced. Each ground will have four teeters, three swings, one pair of rings, a climbing rope, climbing pole, five teeter or Daddies, one pair of volley ball, basket ball, and playground ball, a large sand box for the very young children, jumping ping pits, and straight-away running course. Giant strides and slides may be installed.

Though erecting its own apparatus and employing the school janitors as carpenters under the supervision of Mr. Finley the city has saved a great deal of money as well as obtained very satisfactory results. The apparatus is practically of the same design as that used in equipping the Madison playgrounds, and also similar to that on several Chicago playgrounds. It is set in concrete which assures a rigid base and firm support as well as prevent decay. All steel apparatus for the average playground costs about $1,000.

Playground ball and volley ball leagues will be organized as soon as possible and basketball tournaments will also be held after teams have been formed and obtained a measure of practice. Playground track and athletic meets will have a place in the activities, the contests to be in sprints of various lengths, running high and broad jump and chin-ups. Boys on each playground will be given an opportunity to win a playground button and become a member of the National Playground Association. To become eligible they will have to pass a series of tests; chin themselves for four times, run fifty yards in a certain time, jump to a certain height, and do other specified "stunts." These tests will be held as soon as things are in running order.

For the girls and smaller boys there will be instruction in folk dancing, track meets in running and jumping, throwing the hurle ball, and other contests. Group games of various kinds will be taught them.

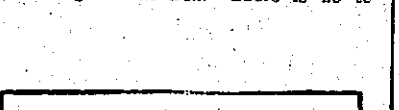

The boys and mothers, and the young people of the city are also to have their hours on the playgrounds, from 6:30 until dark. The children will have the use of the grounds from 9 to 11:30 a. m., and from 2 to 6:30 p. m. It is planned to organize a night light baseball league for clerks and factory workers. An instructor will be present to instruct the "grown-ups" in the various other games.

Arthur Law of Canby, Michigan, arrived today and will assist Mr. Finley throughout the summer. He is a former high school athletic "star," assisted Mr. Finley in Y. M. C. A. athletic work at Cadillac, and during the past summer was an assistant of the director of Physical Training at the University of Wisconsin.

STURDY NUTCRACKER

No Nut Can Withstand the Pressure of This Implement.

They must have some different nuts to crack in Texas, judging by the nutcracker that a Texan devised. The tool is practically a vice that clamps on the edge of the table, but the jaws of the vice instead of being flattened gradually by the revolving of the handle, are thrown together more rapidly by pulling down a lever. Anything caught between these jaws is apt to be broken, unless it is stronger than iron. There is no tedious, and sometimes fiddle, squeezing a pair of handles that have jaws at their joined ends. Naturally, this nutcracker is scarcely appropriate for any dinner table, unless the hostess wants to be able to look like a carpenter shop. But it is very useful in collaterals and other stores where nuts are sold and where they have to be opened.

FRENCHMAN INVENTS A NOSE TELEPHONE

Dr. Jules Glover using his new nose telephone.

Because we all talk through our noses more or less, Dr. Jules Glover, physician of the Paris Conservatoire, has perfected a nose telephone. It has a double receiver—one for the nose and one for the mouth. MAGNOLIA STATION SEEKS NEW DEPOT

Railway Commission Will Hear Arguments on July 10.

The railroad commission of Wisconsin will meet in the village hall in the village of Magnolia, this county, July 10, next, at one o'clock in the afternoon, to hear testimony concerning the sufficiency of the terminal and depot facilities at the station of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company at Magnolia station.

R. E. Acheson, a dealer in general merchandise in the village of Magnolia, filed a complaint with the railroad commission, alleging that in the course of his business he receives and ships large amounts of freight over the Chicago & Northwestern railway, receiving it and shipping it at the depot at Magnolia station, that in order to reach the station from his place of business he is obliged to traverse a road on the north side of sections numbered 23 and 24, in Magnolia township, to a point in the northwest quarter of said section 23, and thence southerly for about 100 rods over a highway on the right of way of the railway; that there is no other way to reach the station except by going east to the town line road between the townships of Center and Magnolia, thence south something over one-half a mile and thence northwesterly for several rods over the railway right of way; that the highway on the railway right of way was opened and is maintained by the railway company; that it is not taken care of, and is dangerous and almost impassable; that owing to the character of the road at certain seasons of the year, he is practically obliged to and does receive and ship such freight as may be necessary for his business at Evansville, a distance of over six miles; that in the respect mentioned the terminal and depot facilities at Magnolia station are grossly inadequate; that he and others have frequently requested the railway company to repair the road and make it passable and safe; and that some of the officials have agreed to do so, but they have not. He prayed that the railroad commission require the railway company to answer the charges in his complaint, and make an order commanding the railway company to so rebuild and repair said way as to make it passable for all those doing or desiring to do business with it at Magnolia station, and for such other and further order as the commission may deem necessary and just in the premises. The complaint is signed by Thos. S. Nolan, of Janesville, as attorney for Mr. Acheson.

The manager of the railway company admits the opening and use of the highway along its right of way, at the place mentioned, but denies that it is dangerous or impassable, or that the depot or terminal facilities at Magnolia station are inadequate. The answer is signed by Edward M. Hyzer, general counsel for the railway company.

The people residing in the vicinity of Magnolia station and the village are showing considerable interest in this matter, and it is expected that a great number of witnesses will be heard by the railroad commission.

SPORT Snap-Shots

ANSWER: THEY'D STARVE.
If "spoon" rhymed with "custard" instead of with "June,"
If "tease" didn't echo to "squeeze,"
If "moon" sounded more like "potatoes" than "crown,"
And the one rhyme for "cute" was "cheese,"
If nothing else rhymed well with "dove" but "olive,"
And "rope" was a ringer for "blue,"
Perhaps you and I wouldn't very much care—
But what would the song writers do?

Charlie Carr, the manager of the Kansas City club, is still figuring and planning on his baseball college at San Antonio, Texas. Some while ago we heard of Carr's plan to establish an institution where he would teach the young idea how to pitch. He expects to instruct regular ballplayers as well as ambitious youths on the theory that it's never too late to learn. He now has his course of study pretty well formulated. Carr has had considerable encouragement from fathers who intend to put their sons under his tuition and the advantage of the school is that it will do away with the necessity of a youngster's working his way up through the minor leagues. An experience not particularly improving to a boy at the age when his character is being moulded, Carr says, however, that there is one thing he won't guarantee, namely, teaching a man to bat 300. "I can improve his hitting a lot," says Charlie, "but real batters are born, not made."

Johnny Kilbane has waxed choleric since someone referred to him as "half a champion." In view of the draw that was given Dunder, the idea that there could be such a thing as a half-champion strikes Johnny as being highly ludicrous, not to say very foolish. If it were possible that a man getting a draw with the title holder could be considered as holding half the belt," says John, "the fight game would be in a pretty kettle of fish. A man getting a draw with one of the 'half-champs' would consider himself a quarter-champ and the title would be split up into eighths, sixteenths, thirty-seconds and so on ad infinitum. Then anyone wanting to claim the whole thing would have to go around gathering the various fragments and lick about fifty scrappers before he could claim the whole belt. Many a champ before me has been given a draw and this half-title stuff was never held off on him. It's folly. Let's forget it."

Booth Hopper—not an actor, he isn't, but a ballplayer—is the object of some little comment in the East. One league as a result of his having pitched two no-hit, no-run games this season and made a few other remarkable records. Hopper is pitching for the New Haven team in the Eastern league and Owner Cammilleri has turned down several very pretty offers for him. The first game he pitched for New Haven he was chased from the mound and three days later he pitched his first hitless, runless game. The youngster is only twenty-one and this is his third season at it, having started his career in the Three I league in 1911.

ACCEPT CHALLENGE OF OLDER PLAYERS

Younger Members of Sinissippi Golf Club to Play Veterans of Game Tuesday Afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon will see the "old" guard of the Sinissippi Golf club and the younger players in a spirited contest for honor on the putting green, the latter having lost no time in accepting the challenge of the members fifty years and over to a match game, the losers to treat the winners to supper. Those who have passed the half-century mark will endeavor to prove that they are far from becoming "osierized," especially when it comes to golf, and those who are still in the side of life years are no less determined to demonstrate that youth leads in all forms of athletics. Mr. Hiram Morgan of Beloit has invited a few of the members of the Sinissippi club to come down and play them at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon and to stay to supper. Those who desire to avail themselves of the invitation are requested to notify Edward C. Baumann as soon as possible.

GRANDALL PITCHES AND WINS EASILY FOR LOCAL CARDS

Star Milton College Twirler Proves Master of Madison Team and Wins Game Handily.—Score 3 to 1.

George Grandall, star Milton college twirler, proved a sensation yesterday afternoon at the Driving Park, by pitching the Cardinals to a three to one victory over the Kipp team of Madison, a fine worthy of mention, and by winning this game he is deemed himself from the defeat handed him by the Cardinals, when he played against them a few weeks ago. The Madison team are a fast bunch, with many old league players in their lineup. Grandall was his best, and Madison was unable to hit the ball but four times during the game. Corcoran making three of the four hits made. Grandall, in addition to this, struck out eleven men, and walked but one.

The Cardinals had a very strong lineup yesterday, with the addition of "Cuddy" Butters on first base. Jimmy Stewart took Sullivan's place on second, and played a great game, by taking care of several hard assists, and putting down a hit. Grandall was a great help also, as he is a good hitter.

The game opened with Madison swinging at Grandall's delivery, but being unable to connect for a drive. The inning was a short one. Janesville scored in the second, on a hit by Heil, which went for two bases. Butters followed with a single, scoring Heil. The locals then retired in one, two, three fashion. The fifth inning proved the lucky one for the locals. Grandall got to first on an error by Madison's third baseman, Wilson, hit a single, scoring Grandall. Wilson was out at first trying to steal. "Buck" Berger connected for a hit and Stewart followed with a short drive, scoring Berger. This inning netted the Cardinals two runs and three hits.

Madison made their lone run in the ninth. A three bagger by Corcoran and a single by McCutcheon scored for them.

Kraft, who pitched for Madison, was knocked out of the box in the last half of the fifth and Fitzgibbons succeeded him. Both pitchers had great support, which aided greatly in keeping the score down. The Madison third baseman made two pretty catches which brought forth applause on a foul, which went past the mile track, he tore after it, and just barely caught it. It was a hard try. The lineup was as follows:

Janesville—W. Berger, 1b; J. Stewart, 2b; Geo. Berger, 3b; Heil, ss; Butters, 3b; Connel, cf; Nebr, 1b; Grandall, p; Wilson, c.

Madison—Corcoran, 3b; McCutcheon, 2b; Toney, cf; Starr, ss; Rice, c; Burke, 1b; Edwards, 1b; Shaughnessy, 1b; Kraft and Fitzgibbons, p.

Score by innings:
Janesville 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 2 7
Madison 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 4
Summary—Three base hits—Corcoran. Two base hits—Heil. Double play—Grandall to Nebr. Bases on error—Grandall, 1; by Kraft, 1. Struck out by Grandall—1; by Kraft, 3; by Fitzgibbons—3; Time, 2:00. Game one hour and forty minutes. Umpire—Reno Koch, Janesville.

Notes of Game.
James Stewart on second for the Cardinals proved that he is able to hold down the position regularly if given a chance. He played second for the high school nine, and played great ball then. Butters was slated for the slab, according to the Madison papers. Had Grandall not pitched, it is likely that Butters would have been sent to the slab.

Wilson caught a beautiful game for the Cardinals. He allowed only one ball to pass him, which figured a double steal for Madison. Grandall is an exceedingly hard man to hold, and Wilson deserves much credit.

The game was a short one, it lasting only a little over an hour and a half. Grandall sent eleven men to the bench via the strikeout route, and every time he struck out a Madison man, the latter would throw his club in anger. Perhaps the reason for this is that the Madison team have not been used to a good pitcher. Next Sunday at the local Driving Park, the Cardinals clash with the Rockford Orioles, one of the fastest aggregations in this section of the country. Tillie may be secured to pitch, although no definite plans have been made. Grandall may also pitch. Both are first class twirlers, and hopes are that one of these men might be secured.

White Sox Defeated.

With the mercury hovering around the hundred mark, the Janesville White Sox met defeat in their contest against the Young Nationals at the North End Park, at Beloit, by a seven to two score. The Sox trimmed the Nationals at Janesville some time ago and the two teams are to fight it out for the old game.

"Jeff" Britt started the game for the Sox and before the fourth inning was over the Nationals had scored six runs and the Sox were submitting to the whitewash brush every inning. In the fifth Lee was put on the mound and the Beloit team were only able to cross the plate once more during the contest and eight men went out by the white route. The Sox started to get Wootton in the sixth and seventh and a couple of good drives and a daring steal third scored their two runs. The Sox would have scored more but for the wing of the Beloit catcher who kept the Sox runners from circling the bags.

The Beloit nine played far better ball than they did when in Janesville, the infield affording their pitcher excellent support in the pinches. Wootton was on the mound for the Line City team and held the Sox batters in check during the early stages of the game. They started the lead in the first innings when two clean hits and three errors and an overthrow to second scored four runs. They shoved their lead up to five in the second and scored one more in the fourth. After Lee took the hurling duties the batting average of the Beloit slug-gers took a decided slump and only one run was scored off him and this was due to a fielder's error.

The Sox got their first run after a long triple, scoring Stickney. Lee scored the second run by stealing home in the ninth and was sacrificed home in the ninth the locals started an eleventh hour rally, but with three on bases Wootton tied up and fanned the next two batters.

Sox lineup—French, c; Britt and Lee, 1b; Lee and Britt, ss; Stickney, 1b; Dalton, 2b; McGinley, 3b; McKelzie, Cronin, Finneran and Kennedy, fielders.

Fourth Ward Stars. The Collier Hill Eagles of Beloit, met their first defeat of the year when they crossed bats with the Fourth Ward Stars of this city yesterday afternoon by a 7 to 6 score. The stellar fielding of McGinley, shortstop in the local team, was the main reason why the locals were able to defeat the Beloit nine for several times he cut off threatening runs by spectacular stops. The two teams are to play another game on July twenty-sixth at Beloit.

THE PEACEFUL MEETING.

Fifty years ago today armies of the North and South were hastening towards the little village of Gettysburg, nestled among the hills of Pennsylvania in the greatest conflict of modern times a few hours later. Today there is assembling on this same battlefield, the men of the North and of the South, men who fifty years ago were an armed host, today a remnant of two great hosts, broken by the toll of years, but as full of spirit and enthusiasm as of old. This time they come in peace. The blue and the gray are merged into one great nation and the southerners are guests of the national government they sought to disrupt a half century ago. Guests of the nation and of the state of Pennsylvania, and as it were sent to represent their commonwealths, wearers of the blue and the gray will fraternize. As a moral spectacle the analogue of the event cannot be cited from ancient, medieval or modern history. Here is its chief significance for observers of the tendencies and acts of contemporary America. The military features of the four days' celebration no doubt will be impressive. Eloquence, inspired by a unique event, may be lofty. But neither the martial nor the oratorical successes of the unprecedented gathering can compete with the event itself. Had not there been magnanimity on the part of the victors and full appreciation of it by the defeated, had not the years taught each set of combatants the equality in sincerity, conscientiousness and courage of its rival and had not the course of national history finally hastened sectional reconciliation because of need of unity of action against foes, foreign and domestic, the world could not have been blessed by so enheartening a vision made real.

Grant began the process of reunion at Appomattox when he defined terms of capitulation that were honorable and generous. Lee did equally prophetic work when, following the war, as a civilian and educator, he pointed his countrymen toward common ways of equity, good will, and social betterment. The years have come and gone, and an example of these typical men has been followed, the more so because the nation as a whole has profited by the wisdom and the spirit of love manifested by Lincoln, beside whom all the protagonists of the great conflict perform seem secondary.

This event must compel the attention of the world, especially at a time when so many nations beyond seas are tense with internal and external problems that indicate no such dominating unity of patriotism as will be disclosed when South and North forget the past and see the future.

TAXES GALORE.
The Wisconsin legislature may not be an aggregation of great mental calibre, but when it comes to spending the people's money it gets there with both pedestals. The state university is not in politics, because President Van Hise says so, but it is near enough the front to command an appropriation of $5,300,000 for the next two years. The state normal school play a close second with $3,000,000.

When to these generous sums is added the three and a half million dollars for the penit and charitable institutions, it is easy to understand that $18,000,000 will be necessary to run the state. Many new patriots have had their names annexed to the pay-roll, and commissions are provided for every conceivable emergency. Satisfied with spending money statute books with all sorts of inquisitorial laws, and by the time the lavishly, the solons have loaded the average employer gets through answering questions, and helping to pay the bills, he feels like throwing up the sponge.

The people of Wisconsin have certainly come into their own, and the men who run the state have discovered without adopting the title of socialism. The $30,000 income tax, collected in Rock county last year, was paid by the business men and manufacturers, except about three hundred dollars paid by the farmers.
If there is any inducement to locate in Wisconsin, under existing conditions, it doesn't appear on the surface. It may be a paradise for political adventurers, and apostles of reform, but it is a tax-ridden commonwealth, with no relief in sight.

ANOTHER MARE'S NEST.
The Chicago Tribune is nothing if not busy, and much of its energy of late has been expended in acquiring cheap notoriety. The Tribune, as a great newspaper, has no rival in this country, and it is to be regretted that its policy is not in keeping with its news standard. Sensational journalism counts for but little through the medium of publications which make it a specialty, but is harmful when it is exploited by papers like the Tribune, and sober-minded, thoughtful people are asking today, what good can come out of the campaign just inaugurated against the great manufacturing industries of the country? For that is what it amounts to, and it will be so regarded.

Under the title, "Invisible Government," the Tribune devoted three or four pages yesterday to a story furnished by Col. Mullan, until recently in the employ of the National Association of Manufacturers, an organization including practically all of the manufacturing industries of the country.
This association was formed for the purpose of self-protection against the unjust demands of organized labor, and had its inception over trouble that grew out of the noted Buck Stove and Range company, some years ago in St. Louis.

It will be remembered that a boycott was inaugurated against this company, and that finally a number of prominent labor leaders were indicted for complicity. This, with other cases of similar import, stimulated the manufacturers to organize, and James Van Cleave, president of the Buck Stove and Range company, was elected president.

The large manufacturers of the country allied themselves with the movement, and efforts were made to influence state and federal legislation, along conservative lines, and if possible, check the tide of radicalism, which was causing the country, and which today is largely in control.
This course was political work and Col. Mullan was employed at a liberal salary to aid in carrying it on. Just why he has proved traitor to the trust, does not yet appear. The Tribune is doubtless in position to explain.

That paper is now engaged in maligning the character and tarnishing the reputation of many men in public life, through information furnished by Col. Mullan. A case in point is the late Congressman Jenkins of our own state. The Manufacturers' association aided Jenkins in his campaign against Lenroot, as it had a perfect right to do. They were afraid of Lenroot, the same as they are afraid of all radicals, and their fears are well founded.

This is the kind of political work that the Manufacturers' Association engaged in, and if they could prevent the passage of erratic laws at Washington, they did not hesitate to work to that end. Why? Because the life of American industries was threatened.

The Tribune's "expose" will be like a sweet morsel to the tongue of scandal mongers. It will be greeted with a "hurrah" by a lot of irresponsible people who never paid a poll tax, but it will be considered as a damnable piece of journalism by all thoughtful people, who have the best interests of the nation at heart.

It is said that changes in checks can be detected easily by means of ultra-violet rays. They ought to, when the change is an ultra-violet raise.

It has taken Wyoming, O., to demonstrate what real optimism is. Two Sundays ago all its people went to church, leaving only the police on guard.

The women who decline to debate with Dr. Anna Shaw because she says unpleasant things about them evidently are disinclined to take the first elementary lesson in politics.

It is warming up some at this writing and Amaral Tison, the leading American and bon vivant down to the barber shop, can stand out in front of the shop in the sun and show his new gold tooth and he and his own merry quips. El Huzana, best drummer in the Silver Cornet band, stole the clapper of the music house held to play the bass drum with, as Constable Stodge is using the regular drumstick for a belly club at this writing. The trouble with the most in house clapper is that El can't play nothing but sacred music on the drum with it.

Leon Furdy, who is visiting here from West Hickeyville, said to Hank Tumms: "I see you are putting up a lot of new buildings in this town lately." "Yes, replied Hank. "That is the only kind of buildings we ever put up."

Noises.
When we purchased our genuine automobile about a year ago, a gentleman came to us and told us that our old rubber bulb horn was passe. "Smart folks are not using them any more. Horn horns don't attract any attention and don't make the police a bit angry. What you want is a sound exacting a wildcat suffering from a severe toothache and can be heard for nine miles on a level road and when there are a week later you will still hear the wildcat signal that you let loose the week before. It is guaranteed to tempt the driver off from a coal wagon. The price complete and installed is $47."

We had the wildcat serecher put on and it remained in style for nearly a month, when we fell for a new pine organ attachment which cost $54.75. In this horn we could play almost any tune from "The Doxology" to "You Can't Do This and You Can't Do That When You're Married." If we had to run over a cat we could do it to music.

The pine organ horn was in style for two weeks when a man came and sold us a Night Owl Hooper. Trumpet, the Hyon, Shiek, the Bude, Snake Rattle and the Tomcat Howl and we are still looking for perfection in noises.

When some man invents an automobile horn, that will emit a sound that is pleasant and thrilling, soothing and nerve-racking all at once he will have solved the problem. In the meantime we have paid more for noises than we paid for the car originally.

MYSTERY OF CHILD'S DEATH IS UNSOLVED

Mary Phagan and Leo Frank.

The mystery surrounding the murder of Mary Phagan, fourteen-year-old girl who was brutally murdered in an Atlanta (Ga.) pencil factory last April, is no nearer solution now than it was a week after the tragedy occurred. All the efforts of the authorities have failed to produce any new evidence.

Leo Frank, superintendent of the factory, is under arrest, charged with the crime, and public feeling in Atlanta is high against him.

Let the boys bring in the clean cents per pound at the Gazette.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM RIVERSIDE, CAL.

(Special Correspondence.)

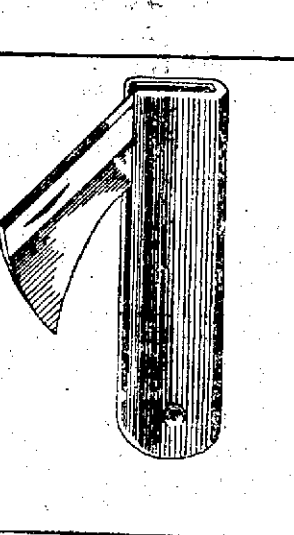

Riverside, Cal., June 26.—In common with other sections of our country, Riverside has been treated to freakish weather during the greater part of June. At the beginning of the month and in the anticipation of the coming of hot weather, I was authorized by our firm to write an ad for the daily papers, calling attention to the approach of the vacation period and to our ability to satisfactorily and completely supply all campers, picnickers and mountain parties with everything needed for the commissary department. Well, after writing, once the weather seemed pretty cool for any kind of an outing, we placed the copy "in pickle," and it is there yet, awaiting the coming of weather more propitious for life out of doors. For he is known that thus far, with the exception of two or three days, this has been a cool month for Riverside, with clouds and morning fogs that almost dripped, they were so heavy. And a foggy morning out here is very different from the Wisconsin article, for the fogs remain high up here and do not go along scurrying an acquaintance with everything and everything in the city. Once in a while the giant comes high up on the summit of Mount Rubidoux, at the western edge of the city, is obscured, but generally speaking, even this familiar and slightly landmark is clearly visible in the early morning light. A little fire in the heating stoves does not come amiss on such mornings, even though the fuel used may not be anything more substantial than a few lightly rolled newspapers.

The shade and monumental trees of Riverside are slowly recovering from the severe freeze of last winter, and already the graceful peppers and the stately eucalyptus are assuming a normal appearance. The palms, however, do not yield so readily to the rejuvenating touch of Dame Nature and many brown leaves give unmistakable evidence of the presence in our city, last January, of Mr. Frost, director of Medicine Hat. As for the orange groves, well, if pruning, and fertilizing, and irrigation, and various other marks of careful attention will bring them back to former productivity, a large acreage will be heard from next winter. From the aforesaid tourist from the north. Two consecutive freezes have shown our people the risk they run in striving to "carry their eggs all in one basket," and leading spirits in the industrial and commercial life of the city and valley are busy investigating various propositions looking to a greater diversity of productions.

MRS. STETSON CALLS SELF CHURCH HEAD

Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson.

In her new book, entitled "Reminiscences, Sermons and Correspondence," Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, who was excommunicated from the mother Church of Christ, Christian Science of Boston, in 1909, announces herself as the true teacher of Christian Science, the spiritual head of the church, as opposed to the directors of the mother church.

and the resultant lessening of the chances for the "City Beautiful" to get another black eye.

Speaking of black eyes leads me to recall an incident of my last visit to Los Angeles. I was going north on Broadway when a great crowd surging along on the opposite side of the street seemed to demand personal investigation and I scoured across the busy thoroughfare to see what the excitement was all about. In the midst of the throng I could see the head and shoulders of a big man and as he appeared to be the cynosure of all eyes, I inquired who he was. "Why, that," said a bystander, "is Luther McCarty, who knocked out Jim Flynn last night." As I never had seen a real live pugilist at short range before, I edged up closer and discovered that before Mr. Flynn was down and out he had succeeded in blacking one of his opponent's eyes. This was about the only damage done to Mr. McCarty's giant frame, however, and he was even then being hailed as the "white hope" and the sporting element of Los Angeles was doing him homage as such. What a sudden startling of all these hopes came then, when a few weeks ago, this big pugilist was carried from his ring in Calgary, a dead man, killed by one blow from his fistic opponent. As I read of his death I could not help but think of him as I saw him that bright morning on Broadway, wearing his black eye much as a soldier does his badge of honor and on his face the smile of confidence in his physical prowess and powers of endurance.

On my way to the store mornings, I pass a little corner garden in which is growing some real corn. There are only about a score of good stalks, and they look green and nice, and oh so pleasing to the eyes of the erstwhile "badger" who is so hungry for a sight of the old home fields of this part of the off home fields of this state. I am sure that I am thoroughly acquainted with a county like old Rock, with its diversified crops, its varied industries and its splendid advantages with regard to geographical location and physical adaptation to the comfort and welfare of its citizens, one should sojourn for a while in a different environment. But in conclusion, truth be told, say that if the environment is among the flowers and fruit of sunshine of Southern California, you are unhappy when you have left it, and uneasy until you return. A former visitor said to me, "I wish I had never seen Southern California, for then I could live back east and remain contented." It is even so. ULYSSES G. WAITE.

CONGRESS MAY TAKE ACTION TO PREVENT REBUILDING STORES

ROCK ISLAND TO JANESVILLE NAVIGATION PLANS MAY BALK THE ERECTION OF STORES ON BRIDGE.

WRITES TO THE MAYOR

Major C. Keller of United States Corps of Engineers Asks Local Authorities to Await Decision Before Allowing Work To Proceed.

Further complication regarding the rebuilding of the stores along Milwaukee Street bridge involving the United States government in the case, has arisen and may prove an absolute prohibition of the proposed construction work. The matter involves the perfection of the Rock Island to Janesville lock navigation plan for Rock River a survey for which was completed by a corps of government engineers last fall.

In a letter to Mayor Fathers, Major C. Keller of the corps of engineers at Rock Island calls attention to the advisability of delay in rebuilding the structures recently destroyed by fire until Congress may take action on the report either authorizing the river improvement plan or rejecting it as unworthy of consideration. Although there is nothing mandatory about the matter as it is at present presented, the attention of the local officers is called to the advisability of discouraging any rebuilding operations until the congressional decision is forthcoming. Coming as it does after the recent investigation of the state railroad commission whose report to the governor will be made in the immediate future, this interest displayed on the part of the federal government is significant and of interest to all Janesville citizens. To those who have believed in the river navigation plan the factor is of importance as it tends to confirm their previous opinions that the proposition is being considered seriously at Washington. As far as the proposed Milwaukee Street bridge is concerned, Mayor Fathers believes that there is no necessity for delay in its construction. The letter which is given below will be taken for consideration by the city councilmen.

Rock Island, Ill., June 26, 1913.
The Mayor of Janesville, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: I have been informed that a fire recently destroyed a number of buildings on Milwaukee Street in such a manner as to form a grave obstruction to existing and prospective navigation. These buildings in fact constituted a serious argument against the attempt to improve navigation of Rock River in this vicinity. Now that the buildings have been removed by an act of Providence, it seems highly desirable that they shall not be rebuilt until Congress shall have had a chance to decide whether the extension of lock navigation up to and including Janesville may be regarded as a work worthy of being undertaken by the United States.

The survey of the river below Janesville has recently been started by this office, and report thereon will soon be rendered, so that the matter will no doubt receive consideration at the coming session of Congress. It seems highly desirable, therefore, that the local authorities, in carrying out their duty, should use their utmost endeavor to prevent the above buildings from being rebuilt in such manner as to prejudice the present and future interests of navigation. I am therefore taking the liberty to ask you to interest yourself in the matter with this purpose in view.

Very respectfully,
C. Keller,
Major, Corps of Engineers.

Once a reporter asked him why he had never married. It's the easiest thing in the world to drive an aeroplane," he answered, "and it's just as easy to get married." Then he added: "Women and aeroplanes are so much alike that you can't analyze either until you get them going."

BATHERS MUST WEAR SUITS OR BE FINED

Chief of Police Ransom Will Rigidly Enforce City Ordinance Regulating Garb at Swimming Pools.

Rigid enforcement of the city ordinance requiring that all persons bathing in Rock river shall wear proper bathing suits, is promised by Chief of Police E. H. Ransom, who declares that violations have been altogether too frequent of late. He will watch the pool and the popular swimming places up the river by members of the police force and offenders will be promptly brought into court and dealt with severely.

A quartet of youthful offenders were brought before Judge Fifield this morning and admitted that they had been in the water at Goose Island and the first suit had without apparel of any kind. They received a sharp reprimand from Judge Fifield, who warned them that a second appearance for the offense would mean a heavy fine.

The youngsters pleaded ignorance of the regulation and promised to secure the necessary suit before venturing into the water again. They also promised to tell their companions of the ordinance and warn them of the consequences of its violation. One of the men working at the upper railroad bridge, now in process of construction, was also reprimanded for the same offense. He agreed to abide by the law hereafter.

The boys were altogether too careless in this regard, declared Chief Ransom this morning, "and I intend to see that the city ordinances and the laws of common decency are lived up to. I shall make it hot for all offenders."

SUFFERS BAD BURNS IN BOATHOUSE FIRE

Taylor, who resides at 413 North Pearl Street, suffered severe burns about his hands and several painful blisters about his face from the fire which started when the gasoline in the launch took fire. The blaze communicated to the boat house which was badly damaged before the fire department arrived and could stop the spread of the flames. The fire broke out in the Taylor boat house was destroyed and the launch was damaged and scorched. Several other boat houses in the vicinity were endangered but did not take fire owing to the efforts of the firemen. The boat house was slightly burned. The fire also prevented the spread of the fire to a fifty gallon gasoline tank which would have caused considerable destruction had it exploded.

FINDS DEER NOT THE CROWS EATING CORN

Former Rock County Resident Who Moved to Clark County Has Novel Experience.

Here is an opportunity for some old time residents to give service as what is the best way to scare deer from corn fields. The following letter from Charles Austin, who moved from Rock county to Clark county, with his postoffice at Spencer, tells of a strange condition of affairs. His letter is as follows:

I was always bothered with the crows eating off my corn in Rock county. Since I got up in Clark county, I find the crows eating it off now, and I would like to know how are any old timers there that could tell me how to make a scarecrow to scare them out.

POLICE TO ORGANIZE FOR A PENSION FUND

Held Meeting at Chief of Police's Office This Afternoon to Fulfill Law's Requirements.

At a meeting of the members of the police force with Mayor Fathers and City Attorney Dougherty at the police station this afternoon an organization will be perfected for the purpose of establishing a pension fund for the Janesville policemen, similar to that which already is in operation for the local firemen. A board composed of the mayor, the city clerk, and three police officers, one of which shall be the chief of police, will have charge of the fund which shall be in the hands of the city treasurer, according to the law governing the matter.

One per cent of each policeman's salary will be deducted each month and added to the fund. In addition the fund will be augmented by a percentage of the saloon licenses, the dog licenses and licenses of various descriptions which are issued by the city.

It is no more than right that the members of the force should be protected while they are disabled, sick or when they have been retired on account of age, said Chief of Police Ransom today. Chief Ransom has been especially active in getting the proposition started and believes that it will work out to the complete satisfaction of all concerned. Madison and several other cities in the state have adopted the plan and met with uniform success in its operation.

MAY INSURE PARCELS SENT THROUGH MAIL

This reduces the insurance fee heretofore paid from 10 cents to 5 cents on parcels below $25 in value.

On and after July 1, ordinary postage stamps, including commemorative stamps, will be valid for postage on parcels. The valid postage stamps of the United States, and of the foreign countries, shall be valid for all purposes for which ordinary stamps are valid.

BLONDES BEWARE OF THE HEATED PERIOD

Government Health Officer Says They Should Shy at Bright Lights Even.

Here is something new for the blondes to watch out for. According to a Washington dispatch blondes are more susceptible to the heat than brunettes and should shy at bright lights, "because they are rich in chemical ether waves," according to Dr. W. C. Rucker of the public health service.

"These actinic waves," he says, "have a deleterious effect on the nervous system of those whose skin cannot reduce their potency."

"Blondes should avoid sunlights as much as possible, and when they do go out, they should wear colored glasses, hats with orange lining and their clothes outside should be white, to reflect the heat rays. Their underwear should be colored, preferably orange or blue. This is to protect the skin."

PERFECTING PLANS FOR JOINT PICNIC

Moose Lodges of Janesville and Beloit To Cooperate in Festivities—Program of Athletics.

Sunday, July 20 having been determined upon as the time, and Yost's Park as the place, plans are now being perfected for the joint picnic of the Moose lodges of Janesville and Beloit. Athletics are to have a prominent part in the program. There will be foot races and handicap races of various kinds, boat races, and a ball game between teams representing the two lodges. Although the Beloit nine has the advantage of greater experience their local rivals are none the less confident of their ability to defeat them. The picnic will not be confined to members of the Moose order and to join in their festivities an invitation will be a swimming race for the capture of a duck to be set free in the river.

Crossing Africa in Motorboat.
Lieutenant Gratz of the German army has succeeded in crossing Africa in a motorboat. The most important geographical result of the enterprise appears to be the discovery that there is a continuous waterway from the source of the Zambesi, in northern Rhodesia, to the River Kongo, which is thus proved to be the longest river in Africa. In 1909 the same official crossed Africa in a motorcar.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE VALUE OF ORDER.

"A PLACE for everything and everything in its place" is such a familiar proverb that any suggestion along that line ought to be superfluous.

And yet, although we all know and approve that sentiment, is the average household, the average business, the average life carried on in accordance with it?

In answer to my piece on my reader friends to form a household efficiency club and send in descriptions of any particular short cut which they followed, one woman wrote me that she found it saved a great deal of time and trouble to have a special place in which to put wrapping paper, paper bags and twine. Of course I was grateful to the lady for sending in that suggestion, but what does it mean? Does it mean that in the home with which she is familiar, there is no such system? Apparently it must, or else she would not contribute it as a short cut.

It sounds like an axiom to say that everyone ought to keep an address book, and yet I have good reason to know that many people do not. Having won a reputation for being systematic in that particular a reputation which, I must confess, I do not have in other matters, I am continually beset, by my friends, by letter and telephone, to supply the address of this or that mutual friend.

How many people have a file for unanswered letters in which letters are placed in the order of their reception and kept until answered? Surely everyone could and should have some simple device for this purpose. And yet it is evident that a great many people do not.

Again, a small drawer or cupboard of some sort, in which all such paraphernalia as stamps, post cards, mullage, paste, rubber bands, clips, etc., are kept, is a great time-saver, and ought to be a matter of course in every home, but I doubt if it is.

Moreover, it is frequently the case that in homes where such systematic arrangements do exist they are observed by the grown-ups but continually set at naught by the children; and this is accepted as a matter of course by their parents, who rebuke their children when they, themselves, are seriously inconvenienced, but do not definitely and absolutely insist on habits of order. This is unfair, both to those who have to suffer from the carelessness, and to the children themselves, for there will surely come a day when they will wish they had been made to acquire habits of order at the time when habits are most easily acquired.

For the household, the business or the life in which to have a place for everything and everything in its place has become a fixed and facile habit, will always be more efficient and valuable—other things being equal—than that in which system has no part.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

To Remove Rust From a Raincoat.

Try salts of lemon or oxalic acid. If you use the latter, rinse within ten minutes that the fabric may not be eaten into by the powerful acid.

Tiny corks tacked on the back of the lower corners of picture frames will prevent the line of black dust forming on the wall behind.

When baking cakes, the pan which contains the cake ought to be placed within another larger pan containing a layer of sand. This will prevent the cake from burning.

Vinegar and water with clean, isinglass. Dip a soft flannel in the solution, pass it quickly over the windows, and they will remain bright for a long time.

A sponge soaked with water filled up with canary seed and then suspended in midair will soon become a picturesque green ball. Once a day is often enough to water it.

The Table. Baked Sausage and Beans—Put par-boiled beans, seasoned to taste and with sufficient moisture, in a baking dish, and on them lay link sausage. Prick holes in the sausage skins, cover the dish closely, and bake the beans the usual length of time. Turn the sausages near the end of the baking, so they will be browned on two sides; and at this time the cover may be removed.

Orange Pudding.—One large or two small oranges, one pint of milk, one rounded dessert spoonful of cornstarch, one rounded dessert spoonful of flour, one-half cup of sugar, one egg. Peel and cut the oranges (in rather small slices) into a pudding dish. Sprinkle over them one table-spoonful of sugar; let the milk come to a boil. Stir together cornstarch, flour, salt, sugar, and mix to a paste with a little cold water. Add yolks of the egg, well beaten. Add to the boiling milk and stir until it thickens. Take from the stove and let cool, then flavor with vanilla. Pour over the oranges. Beat white of egg, stiff, spread over pudding; sprinkle over it a little sugar and brown lightly. Serve cold.

Tomatoes Canned Whole.—Select small, round tomatoes, scald by putting in wire basket and plunging once or twice in boiling water. Remove skins and put tomatoes in jars, add teaspoon salt to each jar, fill jars with cold water, put jars in boiler, the bottom of which is protected with strips of wood; surround them partly with cold water, cover the boiler and boil 10 minutes after reaching boiling point. Tomatoes are the most easily kept of all vegetables.

Every Day Talks For Every Day People.

We are told that "Today well lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope." Today well lived! Are we all living today well, realizing the value of the time given us, to make our life and to work out our eternal salvation?

Arising in the morning do we tell ourselves that today for the day we will be happy, bustling citizens of our city, state and country?

Do we tell ourselves that, as far as efficiency is concerned we will live this day so that if at the setting of the sun we would be called upon to render an account of our stewardship, we could stand up unafraid; that as far as this world is concerned we will live this day as if one hundred years would come and go before you and I are called upon to pay our debt to nature?

So many of us weary of the little duties we are daily called upon to perform, that we forget that trifles light as air constitute the larger part of the lives of us all.

Did you ever stop to reflect on what this old world of ours would be like if, just for a day, we all decided to perform the little duties we are accustomed to perform?

We'd find out mighty sudden if the little things that count, that each one of us—like links in a chain—depend on another for some one thing or other that is needed by every one. We'd find out if we are truly sufficient unto ourselves.

If we really try to do each day's work successfully, keep our heads cool and clear, our hearts pure and clean, we'll come out all right, we can't fail to.

If we live our life in a way that will win the silent approval of that partner who travels with us all, looking over our shoulder as if we were censuring or endorsing our every thought, word and action, we not fail to win.

W. E. too, can say "I know what pleasure is, for I have done good work."

When you and I are no longer young our greatest reward—the only reward we will crave—will be the approbation of our own conscience.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

It is better to say "this one thing I do, than to say 'these forty things I dabble in.'" —Washington Gladden.

A moral, sensible and well-bred man will not affront me, and none other can.

—Cowper.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Two small bunches of young onions will make a pleasant variation in serving the well known and wholesome vegetable. Cut them in inch lengths and cook until tender in veal stock. Make a cup of rich white sauce, add two chopped hard cooked eggs which may be left from breakfast; have ready some buttered toast. Pour over the onions with enough veal stock to moisten the toast, then add the white sauce, cover with bread crumbs and serve.

Chopped Steak.—Take a pound of chopped steak, which may be done at home; put into a well buttered casserole and surround with a cup of pearl barley. Season the meat well with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce; cover with a cup of boiling water and bake in a moderate oven for an hour and a quarter. Just before serving cover with a tomato sauce.

Broiled Hamburger Steak.—Season the chopped meat with salt, pepper, nutmeg, a dash of cloves and onion juice, and make into a flat steak. Place on a well greased broiler and broil until well browned on both sides. If care is used in handling the steak, it may be kept unbroken when ready to serve.

Cream Pie.—Beat a cup of milk and a cup of sugar in a double boiler, add two table-spoonfuls of flour which has been mixed with a little cold milk, the beaten yolks of two eggs and a pinch of salt. Cook until thick, flavor with orange, and set aside to cool. Bake a shell and fill with this mixture, cover with a meringue made from the whites of the eggs with two table-spoonfuls of sugar. Brown in the oven.

Corfish With Butter Sauce.—Shred the fish and parboil, then add to the sauce, which is made as follows: Cook together two table-spoonfuls each of flour and butter, add gradually a cup of cold water; let boil six minutes, add salt, if needed, pepper and the juice of half a lemon.

Mock Rabbit.—Take a pound of corn beef, a pound of veal, two onions and a green pepper; put all through a meat chopper, add three eggs and crumbs to make a loaf. Place in a baking pan with strips of bacon on top. Bake three-quarters of an hour.

Habit Hard to Break. Men too often cease to be lovers when they become husbands. And for a woman who has once had a lover, as for a woman who has once had a maid, it is almost impossible to do without.

Scourge Cure Revived. After having been practically abandoned, the scheme of treating tuberculosis by compression of the lungs with nitrogen gas has been revived.

CHURCH EXPRESSES TRUEST PATRIOTISM

REV. T. D. WILLIAMS GIVES THOUGHT FOR INDEPEND-ENCE DAY AT UNION
SERVICE.

GREAT RESPONSIBILITY

Remains for the Church to Divert Attention of Americans From Thoughts of Wealth
And Power.

America's truest patriots should be found in the church of Jesus Christ upon which rests the responsibility of perpetuating the lofty ideals for which the first of the nation's patriots lived and died, according to the Reverend T. D. Williams of the Methodist church who gave a patriotic address at the Union service at the Presbyterian church last evening.

"Our nation's wealth, power, influence, resources, and greatness is recognized and is evident on every side," said the speaker. "It is a great thing, containing fertile fields, gigantic forests, and mountain ranges rich ores. Our wealth is continually increasing due to our precocity in manufacturing and commerce, and our Yankee ingenuity has revolutionized business."

But with these great strides toward material affluence and power there have come vices and evils which rival the wickedness of some of the nations of antiquity according to the speaker. He emphasized the danger especially of the lust for wealth and position which now runs rampant throughout the length and breadth of the land. There is a danger, he said, of placing our ambition for gold and the things gold can give ahead of the true worth and character of men.

"A nation whose foundation is built on anything but high ideals and noble principles is short-lived," said Mr. Williams. "The Romans had for their purpose the destruction of her rival, Rome, and spent her life blood and her resources in this aim to her disastrous end. The greatness of Caesar and Pompey and Constantine could not save the Roman empire from disintegration, and all the teachings of the Greek philosophers availed nothing for the perpetuation of that republic. Cleopatra's magnetic personality was widely heralded, but we do not look for a great example in the matter of government."

Mr. Williams declared that he was thoroughly impressed with the opportunity which a democracy affords for the development of the best that is in its citizens. Without it there could not have been the man from the log cabin who rose up to save a nation in its hour of peril, and without it there could not have been advanced to the position of highest honor the son of a clergyman, reared in a Presbyterian manse. But a note of warning is necessary; citizens who would be true patriots should not be too arrogant or too boastful of the nation's wealth or standing; if such wealth and position is not raised firmly and substantially on the noble and trustworthy characters and lives of the citizens our life as a nation is menaced.

And so with the church rests the responsibility of training men as true patriots, recognizing the worth and glory of Christian ideals and teachings as applied in our everyday existence.

It is a matter which we cannot leave to education; a man may be well equipped with the training of the "three R's" but still be wicked, inebriate, the home can do much, but it needs the support and guidance of the church which must work constantly and at all times for the preservation of the nation and its citizens.

Man and Wife Fatten on Grape-Nuts.

The notion that meat is necessary for real strength and the foundation of solid flesh is now no longer as prevalent as formerly.

Excessive meat eaters are usually sluggish a part of the time because they are not able to fully digest their food, and the undigested portion is changed into what is practically a kind of poison that acts upon the blood and nerves, thus getting all through the system.

"I was a heavy meat eater," writes an ill man, "and up to two years ago, was in very poor health. I suffered with indigestion so that I only weighed 95 pounds."

"Then I heard about Grape-Nuts food and decided to try it. My wife laughed at me at first, but when I gained 125 pounds and felt so fine, she thought she would eat Grape-Nuts too. Now she is fat and well and has gained 40 pounds. We never have indigestion any more and seldom feel the desire for meat."

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

HAMMOCKS.

By Howard L. Rann.

THE hammock is an easy imitation of a folding bed in which a man can sleep with perfect comfort if he does not object to hanging doubled up in the form of a horseshoe. Hammocks have become quite popular as a porch ornament and as such rare and effective, especially when occupied by somebody who is trying to make love.

Some people do not believe in overwork and have to have some place where they can rest about two hours a day without being stabbed by the native tarantula.

Travelers who have been in Spain say it is a pleasing sight to see a lion-hunted member of the nobility taking a luscious siesta in a hammock, with both knees tucked securely under his lower lip and his mouth slightly ajar.

Hammocks are always taken on a picnic in order to provide a harmless form of exercise for people who do not care to sit on the ground and contract a cold in the head. For some inimitable reason, no two people of the same height and weight ever attempt to sit down in a hammock at the same time. The minute that a stout, healthy woman plants 190 pounds of svelte-like exuberance in a hammock, some playful suitor who averages 88 pounds in his winter overcoat moves in beside her and is immediately caught on the rebound and tossed into a sumac bush. If his companion arises to hunt a third helping of white meat and then sits down in one heap, the hammock will give way in the middle and jar his excess breath out of circulation.

Hammocks are made of a cheap quality of binder twine which is continually breaking in some unexpected spot and causing the occupant to fall through on his elbow. Some hammocks are constructed of a slippery brand of canvas, which is harder to stay on without spikes than the water wagon. Sailors sleep in hammocks in order to avoid making the beds and hanging the pillow shams.

Hammocks are productive of numerous casualties, such as strained ligaments, engagements, etc., but they hold no terrors for love's young dream.

No! A remarkable one—for you have spent the smallest sum that will buy a package of good food; and the grocer has sold you the most nutritious food made from flour—as clean and crisp and delicious as it was when it came from the oven.

STEP TOWARD UNION IN NORWEGIAN SYNOD

Standing Committee Authorized to Investigate Means of Bringing About Lutheran Church Federation.

Significant progress toward a federation of union of the Norwegian Lutheran synods in the United States was taken at the recent extraordinary convention of the Norwegian (Missouri) Synod held at Minneapolis according to the Rev. Holden P. Olson, pastor of Our Savior's church at Madison, who has summarized the results of this meeting for the Wisconsin State Journal. As to the desirability of union they appeared to be of entire unanimity of opinion, although there was a division of sentiment as to the steps to be taken to bring it about.

This disagreement, merely one of expediency, grew out of the various interpretations placed upon the so-called "Madison Agreement," ratified a year ago at the annual meeting of the United Lutheran church and at the five district meetings of the Norwegian Synod. The feeling of distrust grew into a settled conviction in the minds of many that further efforts would have to be made to determine the actual meaning of the agreement before it could be made the actual basis of union or confederation. Resolutions were passed by several special conferences setting forth this conviction and respectfully requesting the Synod to remove the objection before committing itself to a policy of union. Finally a petition, presenting the same arguments at greater length and recommending further negotiations to arrive at an interpretation of the "Agreement" which might serve for all times as authoritative, was drawn up by these theological professors and signed by ninety pastors of the synod.

The majority sentiment was embodied in a so-called majority report, granting enlarged powers to the Standing Committee on Union and authorizing it to undertake the necessary investigations as to how a possible future union or federation of the churches might be effected, the results of these investigations to be reported back to the Synod by the committee. The minority sentiment was represented in the so-called minority report, instructing the Standing Committee of the Synod to continue its negotiations with the corresponding committees of the other churches, with a view to removing the last evidences of disagreement, before taking up the final task of formulating articles of union or federation.

The majority report received 394 votes, the minority report 166 votes. It was a decisive victory for those who favor union or federation at the present stage.

The increased interest in missions was unmistakable. Larger appropriations were voted to the Home Missions Association, and a call for the City Mission at Minneapolis and St. Paul. A new missionary was sent out to minister to the thousands of young men recently attracted to the fishing stations along the coast of Alaska and more workers were promised for this field as soon as they could be obtained. Continued support was pledged to the Seamen's missions at Boston, New York, San Francisco and Seattle, to the city missions at New York and Chicago, and to all other home mission, except that at Salt Lake City, which was abandoned owing to the apparent futility of work.

Among the Mormons.

But the greatest enthusiasm was shown for the foreign missions. In addition to the established missions in Alaska and South Africa, the Synod decided to locate a new mission field in the south eastern portion of the province of Honan, in Central China. This is a very thickly populated region with about five hundred people to the square mile, and embracing altogether about three and a half million souls. One lone missionary has been working in this huge field during the past year. He will soon be joined by three other missionaries and two teachers, who were given their commission at this convention.

Of more than ordinary importance was the establishment of a pension system for sick or superannuated pastors and professors and their families.

The Poet Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

Once more around the groaning board we gather in our glee, while father, with his trusty sword, or shining snickersnee, carves up the large and stately bird, while we the fragments stare from which it well may be inferred Thanksgiving Day is here. And as we fill our divers tanks with viands rich and rare, we ought to breathe a hymn of thanks, since plenty's everywhere. In countless homes the laughter rings, the quip and timely jest, while some are asking for the wings, and some prefer the breast, in countless houses deep, fervent hymns the grateful people chant; while some are wishing for the limbo, and some the gizzard want. In countless homes are shining eyes, and hearts with joy rebound, while mother reaches for the pies and sends the pieces round. Such scenes as these in countless homes enacted are today, and all the birds and pies are pomes that beat Milton's lay. Prosperity's on every hand, the lean wolf howls in vain, and in this fat and happy land no mortal should complain. The toiler gets abundant hire, the merchant makes things pair, and even the poet with his lyre can earn two bones a day. The poor man has his pies and roasts, the rich his motor car; so glory to the Lord of hosts, from whom all blessings are.

The Argyle Case

A Novelisation by J. W. McConaughy of the Successful New Play by Harriet Ford, Harvey J. Higgins and Detective William J. Burns, in Which Robert Hilliard is Appearing !!

"Friedrich," she cried, "what have I done to Mary?"

of the game, just a little bad luck! It will pass."

"Oh, if you'd only listen to me!" she murmured. "If you'd only come away. If you'd only come away!"

Buzz! warned the buzzer from above the door.

"Who is that?" she demanded quickly. He could feel her turn rigid as stone in his arms, and she patted her cheek with his hand.

"It must be Skidd," he said quietly, and, releasing her, went to the door and softly opened it, listening to the sounds from below.

"Yes, it is he," he said, and frowned slightly. "Gage is with him. I'm afraid Skidd has been drinking."

CHAPTER XIII.

"This house is watched!"

THE entrance of the two weaker members of the confederacy was somewhat tumultuous. Gage burst into the room chattering incoherently like a monkey. He was followed by a thick set, coarse young man, very much the worse for Greenwich village whisky.

Mrs. Martin and Kreiser eyed them coldly, unmoved until Gage managed to sputter out:

"This house is watched!"

"Friedrich!" gasped Mrs. Martin. At the word her constant fears became fulfilled prophecies of evil. But Kreiser's pale gray face remained calm.

"Nonsense!" he said doubtfully.

Gage, without waiting for comments, began feverishly opening secret caches and packing his belongings in a suit case. Skidd lurched forward against the table and brought down his fist with a crash that splattered all about.

"Don't you?" he demanded, drunkenly. "Well, do you believe I'm drunk?" The German's disgusted growl was sufficient answer.

"Well," went on Skidd, "they didn't get me so drunk I couldn't keep my eyes on them!"

He dropped into a chair, grumbling defiantly. Mrs. Martin approached him tremulously.

"What is it? What has happened?"

"Some one's on to us," snapped Gage without turning his head. Skidd waved his hand for silence and told his story with the exaggerated impressiveness of the importantly drunk. But it was none the less alarming.

"A wise young guy tried to warn up to me in a saloon," he said, while Kreiser and the woman listened closely. "And I couldn't get him drunk. And, believe me, there's something doing when I can't get a man drunk."

"And there's a new newsboy over on the corner. That's darn funny, now, ain't it?" Without the slightest hurry or expression of alarm Kreiser began packing his things away in their hiding places. And Skidd, proud of the impression he had made, continued:

"And what I want to know is, Are they after us or are they after that new skirt you've got in here? Who is she?" he demanded, glaring at Mrs. Martin.

"What's she wanted for?"

"She's all right, Skidd," Mrs. Martin assured him, watching Kreiser at his swift and silent work. "She's not wanted for anything. I know all about her."

"Well, what's she so—so mysterious about herself for?" demanded Skidd. "What do you want to keep her shut up in that room for all the time? I may be drunk, but I ain't as drunk I can't be suspicious. I want to see that girl!"

"That is impossible," declared Mrs. Martin firmly.

Gage stepped forward and took the drunken man's arm.

"You better go down and hit the hay, Bill," he suggested. Skidd, blinking at him affectionately, instantly turned from his former design.

"Do you think I better, Slimmy?" he inquired.

Without answering him Gage pushed him out of the door and returned. Kreiser was grumbling savagely under his breath.

Then Gage declared himself, shifting nervously from one foot to the other as he talked.

"Well, I fly this coop in the mornin'," he declared—"early mornin'! We're nothin' but a pack of deuces. Skidd! pickled, your pocket picked and a petticoat down in the parlor that you can't get introduced to! Me for Philadelphia!"

Kreiser's lip curled contemptuously. "I would advise then, Mr. Gage," he began, "that you take—"

The door burst open, and Skidd staggered into the room. All three started at the expression of his round face. The drink had died from his eyes. His skin was pink and white and the whole expression was one of utter terror.

"Mrs. Martin," he gasped, "there's a man—there's a man down there!"

Before any of the three could recover the power of speech there was a sound of quick, firm footsteps and a rustle of skirts, and Kayton strode into the room, followed by Miss Mazurek. The detective's eyes were flashing with anger as they rested on Skidd. The others, save Mrs. Martin, he ignored.

"What do you mean by trying to force your way into this young lady's room?" he demanded, advancing threateningly as Skidd retreated before him.

"Mrs. Martin, is this the sort of protection to have in your house?"

"Who is he?" demanded Skidd of Kreiser. "How did he get in?"

The German swiftly seized him by the arm in a powerful grip that imposed silence.

"Mr. Skidd, go to your room," ordered Mrs. Martin severely. She rose to the situation instantly and turned to Kayton with a half apologetic manner. "He's been drinking," she explained.

"Who the devil is he?" demanded Skidd, but not with his former belligerence. He was inwardly completely cowed and frightened.

"What business is it of yours?" demanded Mrs. Martin angrily. "Are you running this house? Go to your room!"

Gage took his arm and dragged him reluctantly to the door, Skidd still protesting feebly.

"Of course if he's drunk," said Kayton, after they had gone, "he probably made a mistake in the room. I'm sorry if we disturbed you."

"Not at all," returned the woman politely. "I didn't know you had called. Doctor, will you see if Mr. Skidd is all right?"

"Certainly," said Kreiser, and followed the others down stairs.

"Mrs. Martin, can't you arrange to give her a room near your own?" asked Kayton quickly when they were alone.

Mrs. Martin nervously moistened her lips and spoke with a visible effort.

"Mr. Kayton, I think it would be better if—much better—if you would take Miss Mazurek away. You see for yourself that I can't protect her in a house of this sort. I can't have the responsibility."

Kayton drew nearer and lowered his voice.

"I can't get her away," he said. "This house is being watched."

Unknown to herself Mrs. Martin's hand flew to the collar of her dress.

"What do you mean?" she asked falteringly.

"It has evidently leaked out that she is here," replied Kayton. "They may be reporters; they may be police detectives. Bruce has the whole force searching for her. I can't take her out without betraying my hand, and she can't go alone. Isn't there a back way that you could escape with her to a hotel?"

"It's impossible."

"Mrs. Martin, the men who are watching this house are operatives of the government secret service," said Kayton swiftly, and the woman choked back a cry. "Some one living here has been uttering counterfeit money. I cannot have Miss Mazurek involved in a scandal of that sort. I didn't tell you at once because I didn't want to alarm you unnecessarily."

"My God!" moaned the woman, her hands pressed to her face. Kayton watched her for a moment in a dead silence. Then she made a quick rush for the door, but he barred the way.

"Wait a moment," he said grimly. "I can't permit you to speak to any one in this house or do anything to defeat the law in this matter."

She stared at him, and her lips barely moved as she asked, "Who is it?"

"I'm not allowed to tell you."

Her eyes questioned again, but he shook his head.

"I advise you to go with Miss Mazurek. Will you?"

"No!" she gasped defiantly. His jaw clicked, and he stared at her a moment from under narrowed lids.

"Very well, then," said he quietly. "Sit down a minute. Mechanically she obeyed, and he stood opposite, talking to her across the table, his back to the closed door.

"Mrs. Martin, my own men are watching the house. The personal which you answered was a plant. She half started up with an exclamation, and then sank back as if crushed.

"I discovered that your husband, Dr. Kreiser, and yourself are engaged with others in a gigantic counterfeit-forging scheme. Now, Mrs. Martin, I cannot make you any promise of immunity from prosecution, but you know that if you do what is right by assisting the law that fact will be taken into consideration by the prosecuting officers. I may be able to assist you there, but in return you must do something for me."

He paused and waited.

"What?" asked the woman, almost inaudibly.

He leaned toward her and in a low, steady voice:

"I want to know who killed James Argyle!"

The woman sprang to her feet with a half smothered shriek and faced him with wildly staring eyes.

"Why do you ask me that?" she cried. "I don't know! I don't know!"

"I could kill him," he said.

"You're the one person who does know," declared Kayton grimly.

"I don't know anything about it!"

"You do, and you can save yourself by telling!"

Mrs. Martin gripped the table and leaned toward him, her eyes staring into his with the wild glare of a maniac.

"I don't care for myself!" she cried. "I don't care but for one thing in this world! What are you going to do with Dr. Kreiser? What are you going to do with Dr. Kreiser?"

His voice rose passionately, but Kayton shook his head.

"I can't do anything for Dr. Kreiser," he replied brusquely.

"You must! You shall!" screamed the woman as the door was flung open and Kreiser himself sprang into the room.

"What's this? What's the matter?" he demanded, looking quickly from one to the other. His wife stabbed at the detective with a rigid forefinger and gulped hard before she could utter a word and her voice was a hoarse rattle.

"This man is Kayton! He has trapped us!"

The next instant the door was shut and locked, and Kreiser advanced into the room, saying softly:

"Quietly, my dear, quietly. He also is in the trap. Now," his mouth set grimly, "what is it?"

Kayton felt a quick thrill of admiration—the respect for courage that a brave man always feels wherever he meets it.

"Dr. Kreiser," he replied almost courteously, "your wife is implicated with you and others in this counterfeit-forging. I have offered her a chance to save herself if she will tell you committed the Argyle murder. She—"

Not so much as an eyelid flickered in the German's colorless face as he interrupted quietly:

"She knows nothing about it. How should she?"

"She knows everything about it," retorted Kayton.

"Friedrich!" cried his wife frantically. "Can't you do something?"

With the speed and smoothness of a sleight of hand expert in a delicate demonstration the counterfeit-forging hand went to his hip pocket.

"I could kill him," he said quietly, as if trying to make up his mind. Kayton, who carried his soft dark hat in his right hand, let it fall to the floor and disclosed a small automatic pistol.

"No!" gasped the woman, seizing her husband's arm.

With a low moan Miss Mazurek, who had shrunk back against the mantel and watched the scene with staring, frightened eyes, sank unconscious on to the old oak bench.

"Your daughter!" exclaimed Kayton in a new tone. "She's fainted!"

And for the first time in his life Kayton lost control of the situation in a vital crisis. Forgotten was the murder, the counterfeit-forging, his reputation, his life—everything—as he bent over the pale fainted girl.

Mrs. Martin seized Kreiser's arm. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dinner Stories

A man remarked that he came from a very large family.

"How many are there of you?" he was asked.

"Well, there were ten of us boys," he said, "and each of us had a sister."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the other. "Then there were twenty of you."

"No," said the boastful man, "eleven."

One day, shortly after George M. Cohan began a recent engagement in Chicago, and before the attaches of the theater that bears his name there had become used to seeing him at long range, the famous actor-actor encountered an old colored woman industriously scrubbing the marble floor of the foyer, chanting the while a doleful dirge-like air.

"Annie," commented the comedian, "that's a mournful tune, you're singing."

"Yes, sir," she answered, "I know it's mournful, but by singin' dat chune an' mindin' m' own business I specs to git to heaven."

The doors of a certain new house had shrunk horribly, as is the way of the modern door made of unseasoned wood. The builder would not send the joiner to replace them, so the householder tried the ironical method and wrote:

"Dear Sir: The mice can run under most of our doors, but our cat cannot follow them. Will you please send a man at once to make room under the doors for the cat and much oblige."

For the second time that night, they had cherry pie for supper. None of the family said anything, but all felt it, felt an Ominous Something in the air, felt an Indefinable Nuanca. At last it came.

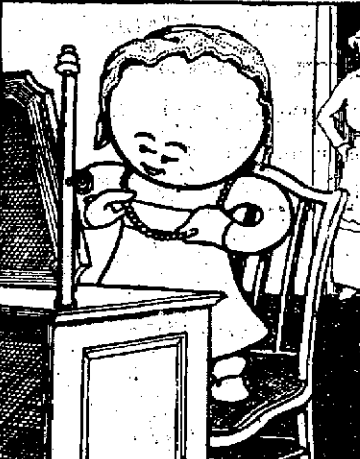

"Papa," hissed little Waldron, "what do you think I found in my cherry pie?"

"Well, what?" said his father in a strained, tense voice.

"A cherry," replied little Waldron. A unearthly shudder seemed to pass through the room.

There are few so fortunate as to possess skin and hair health that is beyond improvement. And to the great majority how do not, Resinol Soap is an especial mission.

Ordinary soaps can do little or nothing to overcome these defective conditions. Containing free alkali as many of them do, they rather tend to increase them. In fact, this use of harsh, drying soaps is one of the frequent causes of skin and scalp troubles.

But the Resinol medication in Resinol Soap tends to keep the complexion free from redness, roughness, pimples, blackheads and other annoying conditions, to prevent chapping and chafings, to clear the scalp of dandruff and to maintain the lustre and health of the hair, while its absolute purity, clean, wholesome odor, and cleansing, refreshing lather suit it perfectly to regular use in the toilet, bath and nursery. ## PUBLIC NOTICE.

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper, and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.
